

11 DROWNED AS BOAT SINKS

Today

Bear Say, "Woe Is Me, Alabama."
Unpleasant Warnings.
The Toad Sees Coodidge.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

MR. RASKOB is coming home from Europe. The Bears, groaned a bitter groan, General Motors went up to 205, first crossing of the 200 Rubicon, and Wall Street again administered punishment, cruel, unusual and unconstitutional to the short sellers.

Again the enthusiastic bought more than four million shares, and again the bears learned that selling anything in this country short, is dangerous.

Buy something good, not more than you can pay for, and keep it. DON'T GAMBLE.

UNPLEASANT warning, but necessary.

The Federal government sees danger of another outbreak of infantile paralysis this summer. Dr. Harris, New York's health officer, warns against danger of spinal meningitis.

THESE diseases, puzzling to science, are as mysterious as were yellow fever and malaria, before men discovered that mosquitoes, and nothing else, spread both.

WHILE waiting for definite information, do these things:

Screen doors and windows, using copper screen, that it may last.

Keep flies away from babies and young children, and away from their food.

Pasteurize or boil children's milk.
Give foods rich in vitamin content.

TEACH children not to put fingers in the mouth or nose—wash their hands well before meals. Teach children that kissing is dangerous, especially on the lips.

And let adults know that their kissing should be limited to their own children. Every adult mouth and throat carries disease germs, latent, that might work havoc in a young child with undeveloped leucocytes protection.

THE President recently inspected Ringling's sea elephant, showing no interest whatever in the Republican elephant.

And on Thursday, for 15 minutes, he contemplated a horned toad that sat in a glass bowl on his mahogany desk and blinked. That toad is supposed to have lived 31 years.

YOU will probably see quick, unpleasant action in China. Forty-six Japanese soldiers were massacred at Tsinan and other foreigners were killed. Japan sends warships and troops to China, and you will hear of more killings in that unfortunate country.

SCIENTISTS do not know how the monstrous dinosaurs were killed off.
They vanished, suddenly from earth,
no one knows just why China, dinos-saur among human units, may go the way of the dinosaurs.

The latter had gigantic bodies and heads so small they couldn't hold a brain big enough to direct the body.

AERIAL TRUCK TO ANSWER ALL CALLS

On orders of Service-Safety Director John W. Moore the aerial ladder truck, housed at the Central fire station is now responding to all fire alarms in the business section and also to schools and churches.

Because of the lack of men here, before this truck has been taken from the fire station only in case of big fires when it was necessary for firemen to return to the state house for the truck.

In addition to the aerial truck No.
1 and No. 4 truck from the Central station and No. 3 truck from the Northside station answer all calls from the business district.

G. A. R. FLAG DAY NETS $315

Sons of Veterans Assist in Memorial Fund Campaign.

Approximately $315 was raised for General Lyon post No. 44, Grand Army of the Republic, through the sale of miniature flags here Saturday.

The campaign was conducted under the direction of General Garfield Camp No. 3, Sons of Veterans, and the ladies' auxiliary. Mrs. Emory Haddock, a member of the latter organization, was chairlady of the flag sale, while workers included women and girls.

The money will be used in meeting the expense of the Memorial day observance here and also in relief activities among war veterans and members of their families.

The general committee from the Sons of Veterans sponsoring the sale today thanked the workers and the public for the response to the appeal.

CHURCHES ASK COAL FIELDS PEACE

BURY HATCHET IN MINE ZONES, IS APPEAL TO MEN, OPERATORS

"Belligerent, Oppressive Tactics" Hit by Federal Council.

FINDINGS GIVEN
Violence Condemned;
Eviction, Injunctions Scored.

By James L. Kilgallen.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Abandonment by both operators and mine workers in the strike-ridden bituminous coal fields of "belligerent and oppressive tactics" and the re-establishment of orderly industrial relations are recommended in a lengthy report issued today by the department of research and education of the Federal Council of the Churches.

The report emphasizes the "unsatisfactory economic situation of the industry" and:

Condemns the use of violence.
Says the eviction of mine workers' families from company houses "indicates a wholly unsound social situation."

Declares that the use of injunctions in labor disputes has been "carried to absurd lengths."

"Advocates a frank presentation by the operators of the financial data upon which they base their contention that the union scale is prohibitive."

Industry Over-Developed.

The report contains the findings of the church organization as the result of an investigation conducted during the past few months at the request of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches.
The investigation was made in the coal fields of western Pennsylvania.

Stressing the unsatisfactory economic situation in the industry, the report makes these statements:

"Here is a seriously over-developed industry, with more mines and more labor than the demand justifies, divided into sharply competitive fields and subject to influences that tend to limit its market. Until the fundamental ills of the industry, treated as a whole, are grappled with successfully either by the industry itself or by the government, or both, preoccupation with the humanitarian phases of the problem can accomplish little of a constructive nature."

Condemn Police Violence.

The use of violence is deplored in these words: "However great the provocation, the beating up of men who have taken the positions of those on strike is a barbarous practice. The fact that these brutal demonstrations may be quite unauthorized by the responsible officials of the union is only a partial defense. The conduct of the strike imposes a heavy responsibility in the matter of discipline."

Stronger language is used in condemning police violence: "In employing with legal sanction the coal and Haydel's first suspension of the season."

BILL M'KECHNIE IS SUSPENDED

NEW YORK, May 7.—William Mc-Kechnie, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was today suspended for three days by John A. Hey-dler, president of the National league, for his alleged abuse of Umpire Pfrman in the dugout after yesterday's double-header between the Cards and Brooklyn Dodgers at St. Louis. It was Heydler's first suspension of the season.

McKechnie waxed wrathful over a decision at second base. Pfrman ruled that Frank Frisch, Cards' second baseman, did not touch the bag on a force play.

NAVY, COAST GUARD "PASS BUCK" IN SINKING OF SUBMARINE S-4

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The navy blames the coast guard and the coast guard blames the navy.
Upon this basis today rested the responsibility for the tragic sinking of the U. S. submarine S-4 and men. The S-4 was struck by the coast guard destroyer Paulding.

The navy got its report in first,
a navy board finding a few weeks after the crash that the Paulding was at fault. Lieutenant Commander J. S. Baylis was criticised for failing to sight the S-4.

NEW FIRE CALL RECORD LOOMS

A new record for fire calls received by the East Liverpool department looms for 1928 based on figures for the first four months of the year.

Up until today 113 calls, an average of almost one call per day, had been received. The record was established in 1926 when 158 calls were answered.

Many calls during the last month were grass and brush fires.
Few fires of a serious nature have occurred this year, the largest loss being less than $2,500.

moved into it.

man Richards after he is alleged to have driven through a red block in the traffic light at the corner of Mulcils were also filed against W. C. Irwin, chine is alleged to have been parked over the 12-hour limit in Second street for three successive nights.

Twelve other persons, charged with intoxication, nabbed by the police over the week-end, were fined $10 each by Judge Hanley.

BREMEN FLIERS ARE READY TO START 14-DAY AMERICAN TOUR

Baron, Fitz and Koehl
Meet Wisconsin
Governor.

TO USE JUNKERS

Airmen Will Hop to Philadelphia on Wednesday.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Governor
Fred R. Zimmerman, of Wisconsin, who hastened here by airplane, today had an appointment with the Bremen fliers to urge their making a visit to Madison, capital of his state, in the American tour which the aviators began Wednesday.

It is one of many pleas pouring in upon Baron von Huenefeld, Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl to expand their itinerary beyond its scheduled 14 days.

The ship in which the mid-westerners flew to New York was undergoing repairs at Mitchell field. A storm forced it down Saturday night at Se-lingsgrove, Pa., where Governor Zimmerman dedicated a new airport.

Today holds no let-down in the matter of affairs in the fliers' honor. They were to lunch at the Astors as guests of the German-American Chambers of Commerce. The Friendly Sons of St.
Patrick held a reception for them at the Astor this evening.

Major Fitzmaurice and Captain
Koehl attended Sunday mass at St.
Agnes' church. The Baron and Mrs.
Koehl went to St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church.

Wives Remain in New York.

In a Junkers monoplane, similar to the one in which they flew from Ireland, the fliers will hop first to Philadelphia.

The wives of Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl will remain in New York. They will return to this city
May 23.

Their itinerary follows:
Wednesday, May 9.
Leave Curtiss field for Philadelphia.

Thursday, May 10.
Leave Philadelphia for Cleveland.

both of Findlay, were being held in the county jail here today charged ael, aged horseradish manufacturer, on the night of January 13.

Brooker and Haws, according to Sheriff Kenneth Clark and Chief of Police Frank Grant, confessed that they beat McMichael to death with glass bottles they found in his small money, during an attempted robbery.

DARROW RETURNS TO HOME COUNTY

JEFFERSON, O., May 7.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, today was to re-enter court after a long absence. He is to defend James Munsene, alleged bootlegger of Trumbull county, Darrow's home territory.

While Darrow's name will go on the records in the local court as chief of defense, it is largely a "homecoming" for the veteran attorney. A few months ago, when visiting his birthplace at Kinsman, near here, Darrow expressed a desire to win a lawsuit in his old haunts.

Munsene is charged with attempting to bribe the wife of Sheriff Jack Smith of Trumbull county over two years ago. Tried twice on the charge he was convicted, but each time the con-

The committee hopes in this way to impress upon the minds of the injured persons the necessity of exercising more care in the performance of their duties. The division reported only one reportable case for the month of March.

The various district meetings were well attended, many interesting subjects discussed, of particular importance being the number of children, trespassers and employees cautioned about unsafe practices.

Clean-up Campaign

East Liverpool's annual spring clean-up is under way. With the health board supervising and the service department co-operating, all sections of the municipality will be put in spick and span condition if home occupants comply with recommendations.

The campaign, launched for the purpose of eradicating the winter's accumulation of rubbish, including waste paper, tin cans, etc., which are not only fire hazards and eyesores but also health menaces, is expected to prompt a general clean-up of attics, cellars and back yards.

Under a schedule arranged by Service Safety Director John W. Moore, street department trucks will visit different zones between today and May 21 to collect refuse which is deposited in receptacles and left in alleys. This will be removed without charge.

At the expiration of the two-week period, health department representatives will make a survey to determine whether the clean-up order has been heeded. In the event they find any violation of fire laws or sanitary regulations, charges will be preferred against offenders.

It should not be necessary to appeal for co-operation on the part of citizens who have civic pride and are interested in the health of the community.

Exploring Volcanic Chain

Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, the scientist who for more than a quarter of a century has rushed to volcanic eruptions as a fireman responds to an alarm, is on his way to explore Mount Pavlof sector of the Alaskan peninsula and the Aleutian Island volcanic chain for the National Geographic Society.

By intensive study of this longest of craters in the world it is hoped to devise ways of predicting volcanic eruptions and earthquake shocks and thus save millions of dollars of property and thousands of human lives by the issuance of timely warnings.

Dr. Jaggar is not an alarmist, and it is his belief there are no more earthquakes or eruptions than there have been in the past. But more and more people are living in the congested areas where these disturbances inflict disasters now, whereas they would have passed with little or no attention not so many years ago.

Along a mighty ridge between the Pacific and the Bering sea lies a mighty barrage of craters, with extraordinary ocean depths to the south and the coastal plain shallows to the north. And therein prevail unusual weather conditions, remarkable tides, curious ocean currents, glacial deposits, vegetation types of botanic interest and future economic value, extensive fisheries and the largest wild life reservation in the United States.

All this region has scarcely been studied at all. There are at least half a hundred active volcanoes in the chain which Dr. Jaggar will study. Along 600 miles of the Aleutian coast line there are some 150 harbors, unmapped and uncharted, and therefore unvisited.

The Jaggar expedition also will make observations of the people in the region—the north shore Eskimos and the south shore Aleuts, who, with the Scandinavian fishermen and trappers, and the employees of American canneries, make up the sparse population of the island pathway which once was the great migration route of Russian adventurers who made their way across bleak Siberia and then pushed onward into North America in quest of new fur worlds to conquer.

The region is as rich in animal life as in geology. There are to be found the brown bear, caribou, ptarmigan, fox, wolverine, and geese along with various other shore and sea birds. On the north shore are the walrus, on the south shore are sea lions and hair seals.

The relation between volcanoes and earthquakes is not yet determined, but Dr. Jaggar considers it more than a coincidence that they occur in the same belts the world over. This relation is one of the scientific problems which the National Geographic Society expedition to the Aleutian Islands may help solve.

America's Colonial City

Proponents of the movement to save landmarks of American communities, point to Annapolis, Md., as one of the chief cities to conserve its mementos of the past. Annapolis has been preserved as America's most truly colonial city.

Maryland was one of the states which spared neither men nor wealth to help bring independence to the American colonies, and in Maryland's statehouse there are gathered together relics, paintings and the like of not only rare historic value, but without likenesses anywhere.

Everyone remembers the story of Charles Carroll of Maryland, who headed the delegation chosen at Annapolis to represent the province of Maryland in the Continental Congress.

When it came his turn to sign the Declaration of Independence there were some bantering remarks as to whether the signers would hang separately or together if the revolution should fail. Some one said Carroll would have a chance to escape, inasmuch as there were so many Carrolls the British would not know which one to seize.

Whereupon Carroll added "of Carrollton" after his name, with the remark that now the British would have no trouble in identifying him.

Maryland and Annapolis are rich in history, in legend and in lore. And nicest of all the Maryland cities in this respect is Annapolis.

Praise For Schools

German educators now touring the country find our schools very good. They praise our practicality and efficiency, but do not end there.

"In Germany," they say, "we have many fine things—fine university work, fine scientific work, fine organization—but we stress always learning. You give more attention to character."

And many of us have been complaining that our schools neglected character-building!

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7.—A few weeks ago the public was informed that thanks to the development of various welding processes the distressingly noisy riveting machine was about to be banished from the land.

Also, it was stated, the general adoption of the welding process would result in important savings in materials and in labor costs.

It appears, however, that such promises and statements are not to go unchallenged.

This, the greatest building age in history, has been made possible by riveted steel. Approximately 150 rivets are required per ton of structural steel. Bookings of fabricated structural steel have more than doubled in fourteen years, the average monthly bookings in 1925, 1926 and 1927 being 230,000 tons. A consumption of more than 34,000,000 rivets per month conveys some idea of the rivet's important place in steel fabrication. Could there be better testimony to the dependability of the riveted joint?

The authority for that paragraph is A. F. Jensen, the president of the Hanna Engineering works, Chicago, who is disposed to resent criticism or condemnation of the riveter because it is a noisy machine.

"I am not so certain," he says, "that all the agitation with reference to the noise of riveting is prompted solely by humanitarian motives. Until the fabrication industry is given a quiet process of making metal joints the strength of which may be predetermined, and which may be inspected and reasonable assurance of its soundness obtained, I suggest that the public benefactors who want noises eliminated concentrate on eliminating many existing noises that are both unnecessary and preventable. Riveting is not one of them."

Mr. Jensen does not oppose new mechanical methods or processes that are progressive, but he says that engineers and fabricators know what a rivet will do and before accepting welding must know what a weld will do. In an address before the American Institute of Steel Construction, Milo S. Ketchum, dean of the college of engineering of the University of Illinois, said that while the tests and experience with welded structures would appear to indicate that welding has an important place in the fabrication and erection of steel structures, much study, investigation, and experimentation will be necessary before welding can be generally adopted in place of riveting. Dr. Ketchum added that it was entirely probable riveted connections would continue to be used for heavy framework for bridge and buildings, and where difficult erection problems occur and for structures of complicated design, where it is necessary to design for deflection stresses.

Jensen says there is no record of the failure of a structural rivet in service and calls attention to the fact that for reasons that would appear extremely technical to laymen, the welding process was abandoned in the construction of a great California pipe line.

"But," he says, "after all, only that process which is dependable and most economical will survive—nothing can divert the application of this test."

And in the matter of noise, Mr. Jensen does not come to the front with the idea of a noiseless riveter. Instead, he calls as his expert witness Dr. Laird, of Colgate university.

"Build a room with sound-proof walls and enough sound will come through the keyhole and reflect back and forth upon those walls to create a din. What modern buildings need is something upon those walls to absorb sound."

"Then people can leave the 'v' doors open even if riveters are working across the avenue."

Q. What is the red liquid used in the dash register on automobiles? B. N.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the liquid used in the dash register on automobiles is alcohol with an organic dye which is soluble in alcohol, such as magenta and eosine, both coal tar derivatives.

Q. How large a foreign trade office does the Department of Commerce have in Paris? G. H. C.

A. The Paris office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce has a staff numbering 35 to 40. The Commercial Attache in charge is Mr. H. C. McLean.

Q. How should a book manuscript be secured together? A. R. H.

A. In a recent address given by the president of a well-known publishing company the statement was made that its editorial department much prefers that no binding be placed upon the pages of a manuscript. He showed a model manuscript which had been forwarded to the company in a box such as that in which one buys a large amount of typewriter paper. The pages and chapters should be arranged in regular sequence.

Q. Why is the number four on clocks made III instead of IV? G. M. B.

A. It is not definitely known when the practice of using III instead of IV on the dials of clocks and watches arose, nor the reason for it. There is a story that a famous clockmaker had constructed a clock for Louis XIV of France. He had naturally used the numeral IV. When the clock was shown to the King, however, he insisted upon the change III. This same story has been told in connection with various monarchs. Prof. Milham says that one reason for the change may be symmetry. On the other side of the dial the number VIII is the heaviest number, consisting of four heavy strokes and one light one. It would destroy the symmetrical appearance of the dial to have IV with only two heavy strokes on the other side.

Q. At what time does the cotton bloom? M. K.

A. Cotton sowing usually commences from approximately March 10 to April 15 and continues to May 15th. The young shoots, which appear in from 10 to 15 days, are weeded and thinned when they have attained a height of from 2 to 6 inches. The average date of bloom is June 5th. Picking time is from July 10, in Southern Texas, up to September 10, in Tennessee, and the Carolinas.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, May 7.—Diary of a modern Peppys: With Verne Porter to breakfast and he boasted of an electric cigar lighter on his car that worked, and I pretended to believe him. So we to call on William MacHarg, but he immersed in literary labors and in no humor for roasters.

Browsed among window displays, making mental purchases of this and that for gifts for friends, and saw a fellow who was the spit image of John Barrymore, the cinema Don Juan, but he needed a shave and I reckoned it could not be. Yet I once saw the late Robert Hilliard with egg stain on his vest.

Home of my chores and decided to give up French lessons because of utter linguistic dumbness, yet nothing so inspires my admiration as one who speaks French fluently. So with my wife to dinner, and chatted with Will Hays and to bed early.

Will Hays has—or at least he used to have before the oil mess—more fun at a social affair than any man I know, yet he neither drinks nor smokes. He is a willing recruit for one of those hastily organized quartettes that sing so seriously and sourly off key. If in the mood, he will remain until the last and be as effervescent as at the start. His obvious frailty hides boundless energy and enthusiasm and he can whoop life into a dead gathering in a jiffy.

Hays usually spends the weekends with his family in Sullivan, Ind., taking along a brace of secretaries to attend the voluminous details of his job enroute. Sunday morning finds him at the open forum of home town whittlers, and Monday afternoon he is back at his desk, guiding the destinies of the fifth—or is it fourth?—industry.

Around Broadway, after theatre, is a deafening noise like the shout of children suddenly released from school. It is a tribute to New York's overtone of clamor. People must shout to be heard. A New Yorker does not realize how high his voice is pitched until he visits a quiet community, and then he senses a faint justification for that sneering salute, "Loud-talking New Yorkers."

Firemen give a lot of happiness to slum children who live in the neighborhood of fire stations. On hot evenings they provide a bathing soiree for the youngsters who array themselves in improvised bathing suits. Children line up in the streets and the hose is turned on them amid shouts of hysterical glee. There are mass attacks against the stream in football formation, and other playful diodes. Tired mothers watching from the stoops are also refreshed by the coolness that comes to the hot bricks and asphalt. For the little shavers, a small garden hose is utilized, and they, too, have their splash—often an autone.

New York tenement children have a self-assurance rarely achieved in other cities. They do not cling to shadowy doorways in a brooding quiet. In London and Paris, slum children sink from passers-by. But here they are alert and unabashed by equal. They will be friendly, but you have a feeling they do not want your pity. The street is their playground and woe betide the careless motorist who invades their domain. He must go slowly and honk his approach every inch of the way, or he is likely to be dragged from his seat for a sound thrashing.

Real childish boredom is found among the starchily dressed children in charge of prim uniformed nurses along the mall in Central Park. Their expensive toys lie idle. They do not play, nor do they mingle.

In an hour's walk today I passed a bricked jewelry window, a store where there had been a safe-blowing, and saw a daylight heave man being escorted to a patrol wagon. There seems to be nothing to do but join the Panta Gang or clear out for the wilderness with a book.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

A baby's life is filled with danger. No matter how well and strong the infant, there are many troubles which must be overcome. When the baby grows old enough to wean, or when for any other reason the mother must submit her child to bottle feeding, there are many dangers to guard against.

The common substitute for mother's milk is cow's milk. But cow's milk differs materially from mother's milk, therefore, it must be modified. That is, additions must be made to give it more nearly the qualities of human milk.

The protein content is greater than that of mother's milk. You can see why this is: The baby calf grows more rapidly than the human baby and on this account it must have the building materials which the proteins supply.

Another difference lies in the quantity of sugar. Mother's milk contains fifty per cent more sugar than cow's milk.

These differences are liable to cause serious trouble if clear cow's milk is given the baby. This is why such milk must be modified to adapt it to the baby's requirements.

The unfamiliar quantities of protein would cause the cow's milk to coagulate into hard curds in the stomach. To overcome this, gruels are added to the milk. They act to break up the mass.

Milk sugar must be added to supply the deficiency of sugar, and water is poured in to establish the proper proportions.

The general principles involved in modifying cow's milk are indicated by this formula:

To sixteen ounces of milk are added twelve ounces of barley water, or some other gruel, a teaspoonful of sugar and a pinch of salt. Under cer-

Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby — Babies Have Nerves
By RUTH BRITTAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the overstimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends. Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting, and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Fretfulness, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep; yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable — the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over a million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Comes Upon Victims Unsuspected; How World's Tonic B anishes Catarrh.

Catarrh comes upon its victims like a thief in the night. Often its presence is not even suspected until it has secured a firm hold. Even then many people do not secure medical help, especially if the disease has not progressed to a point where it causes acute distress, and the ailments continue to gain headway.

The time to fight catarrh is right now. It should not be put off until tomorrow. If left alone the disease may progress to a point where holes are eaten in the roof of the mouth, facial bones decay, resulting in large cavities over which the flesh slugs in, or consumption and death may result. Sooner or later serious consequences nearly always come from catarrh.

Many catarrh sufferers are highly praising World's Tonic for the good it has done them. World's Tonic is a systemic treatment for catarrh and has brought astonishing results in many cases. It relieves distress in the nose and throat almost at once and stops the spread of catarrh, and it also fights catarrh in every source, within the system, and is designed to relieve the system of catarrh entirely.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I go out with a young man who is 12 years my senior. I am in my late teens. I love him very much, but he has never told me he loved me. We have gone together for two and a half years. He works every night but Sunday, and I go to card parties and shows with his mother. She seems to like me very much, and my parents like him. But people talk because of the difference in our ages. Does that make any difference?
My friend has not been out with any other girl since we started to go together. I have been out a few times, and he has always found it out. He asked me not to do it again as long as we go together. Do you think he loves me?

TROUBLED PEGGY.

TROUBLED PEGGY: As long as you and your friend are not engaged to be married, Peggy, you ought to go out with other young men. I do not approve of limiting your friendship, in such a case, to just one man. Explain this to your friend, and I am sure that he will agree with you that it would be unwise for you to see no one except him.
As to the difference in your ages. Twelve years is quite a lot. However,

NEXT SATURDAY IS CIRCUS DAY

More Than 100 Artists
With Gentry Brothers.

It's the red wagon that's the question of the hour in East Liverpool at least for the small boys of six, as well as for those of sixty. The billboards, barns and dead walls are announcing with all the fluency of pictorial art the coming of the Gentry Bros. Shows. And already preparations are being made for the one big holiday event of the year, acknowledged to be better than Christmas and the Fourth of July put together.

Fourfold goal of the project is: Why do young people go to college? what is the best basis preparation for college life? what is the responsibility of the secondary or high school for acquainting pupils with college aims? and what is the college's responsibility for training its students so that their native ability plus their high school training will yield the greatest possible dividends to the individual in college and society.

An immense street parade will be seen on the downtown streets at noon on show day. There will be upwards of five bands of music and scores of allegorical tableaux. There will be performances at 2 and 8 p. m.

ELISHA TUCKER HELD FOR COURT ON TWO COUNTS

Former East Liverpool Man Charged With Robbery.
BOND IS $2,500
William Tucker Held for Breaking and Entering.

Elisha Tucker, formerly of East Liverpool, but who recently has been residing near Chester, was held for action by the Columbiana County grand jury by Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman, Lisbon this morning after entering not guilty pleas to charges of breaking and entering and pointing fire arms.

Following the hearing William Tucker, a brother of the defendant, was arrested upon a breaking and entering charge. He also pleaded not guilty and was held for examination by Justice Zimmerman at a later date. William Tucker's bond was fixed at $1,000 while that of his brother totaled $2,500 on the two counts.

The two Tucker brothers are alleged to have broken into the garage of John E. Smith, near the township line school last Wednesday night where they stole paints, oils, brushes and other material valued at $150. Smith arrived home just as the men were leaving. He followed them to the Newell bridge and when he attempted to stop them as they were paying bridge toll, Elisha Tucker is alleged to have pulled a gun and threatened him. The Tucker car then made its escape into West Virginia.

Smith preferred information against Tucker at Lisbon Thursday morning and the suspect was taken into custody at Lisbon Saturday morning. He agreed to return to Lisbon without extradition papers and was committed to the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Kindsvatter. Tucker was represented by Attorney Frank E. Grosshans.

PUSH PAY BOOST FOR U. S. WORKERS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Uncle Sam's 150,000 employees may win the first half of their legislative fight for better pay today through passage of the Welch $18,000,000 salary increase bill in the house.

Although the benefits of the Welch bill were reduced in a compromise effort, the measure will carry an estimated increase of $180 a year for employees in the custodial service and $100 to $150 a year for other employees.

Approximately 100,000 civil service employees outside of Washington, scattered through all states and possessions will benefit under the bill, it is said. Some of these workers now receive as low as $600 a year with few exceeding $9,000.

POLICE SLAYER SLOWLY DYING

Negro Resisting Arrest
Shoots Two Patrolmen.

MIDDLETOWN, O., May 7.—George McCullen, 26, negro, who shot and fatally wounded two Middletown policemen here Saturday night during a gun battle following an attempt to escape arrest, was slowly dying at the Middletown hospital today.

McCullen was shot by police when he jumped from an automobile rushing him from Hamilton to Middletown to avert threatened lynching. He was then brought to the local hospital where hospital attendants said there was no hope for his recovery.

The negro confessed, police said, that he shot Patrolmen Elbert Crout, 23, and Harold W. Rota, of Middletown, while resisting arrest on a liquor charge. Rota died Saturday night and Crout Sunday morning.

The dying negro's father who is alleged to have aided McCullen in his battle with police, is being held without bond and will be charged with first degree murder.

GLENMOOR MAN IS FINED $200

Thomas Carnes, Glenmoor, was at liberty today following payment of a $200 fine assessed against him by Justice Everett Worthen, St. Clair township, upon a charge of possessing liquor Saturday.

Carnes was arrested following a liquor raid at his home along the Lincoln highway by Constables Lawrence Chamberlain and W. J. Burbick, at 11 o'clock Friday night. Three gallons of moonshine whiskey and 21 bottles of home-brew are alleged to have been confiscated in the raid.

Churches Ask Peace

Iron police, the coal companies incur a solemn obligation not to divert the processes of orderly government to private ends. It is almost impossible to preserve justice in a time of industrial crisis when officers of the peace are carried on the payrolls of industrial corporations. This practice does not become salutary by virtue of legality or precedent.

Uphold Right to Organize.

Citing the bitterness caused by the use of injunctions, the report says: "When a corporation secures a court grants an injunction restraining a union not only from acts which are illegal and wrong in themselves but from ordinary routine activities, such as the peaceful recruiting of members or the disbursing of relief funds in time of strike, the social effects are bound to be injurious. The same is true when the injunction is used to protect an individual contract that is contrary to the worker's legitimate interests."

Employees should have the right to organize and bargain collectively, the report declares, adding that "the employers should be brought to a realization of the need of conceding that right as a means of eliminating cut-throat competition."

Union Position "Very Difficult."

The position of the United Mine Workers is described as "very difficult" since their strategy has been "directed toward holding the Jacksonville wage scale for the union fields as a whole."

"They (the union leaders) content," the report points out, "that if they accept a reduction in the interest of the operators they have no assurance against recurring reductions and a progressive lowering of their standard of living because of the continuing competition of the non-union fields."

"On the other hand, insistence upon the Jacksonville scale, if we may judge on the basis of the financial data available, puts the operators in an impossible position in view of the active competition of the southern fields."

Suggests Co-operation.

"It unfortunately appears that the United Mine Workers must choose between a continued effort to maintain the nominal wage level and an effort to rehabilitate their organization in the Pennsylvania and Ohio fields by seeking a working agreement which will be in line with the economic facts in the situation."

"They must decide whether their greatest stake is in the maintenance of the existing wage scale or in the immediate recovery of the Pennsylvania and Ohio fields. At the same time the miners can not be expected to accept even a temporary reduction in the scale unless the operators are willing to resume collective bargaining, and to give some assurance of steadier working time and increased annual earnings."

The reports in conclusion suggests co-operation between the operators and mine workers with a view to the gradual elimination of surplus mines and mine workers by the operation of economic law.

F. H. Warren, former superintendent of schools here, but who for the last 10 years has been head of the schools at Fostoria, has declined to be a candidate for re-election and will retire at the end of the present school term, it was announced today.

COLUMBUS, May 7.—Charges that the election of three boards of overseers of the Ohio Union of Ohio State university held Friday, was illegal, were being investigated here today. The three students who were declared elected are: George Brinck and Harry Kemp of Dayton, and Crain Jordan of Cleveland.

The charges, according to E. S. Drake, secretary of the union, are that candidates canvassed students for fee cards which allowed the bearer to vote. These fee cards, it is alleged, were used by the candidates but not by the members to whom they were issued.

Of the 750 votes cast, it is alleged, more than 100 were illegal. There were 11 candidates. None of the men elected have been implicated in the illegal practice, it was said. Brinck and Kemp, were named trustees for one year; Jordan, trustee for two years.

WOMAN DENIES CHECK THEFT

Former State Official Goes on Trial at Albany.

COURT ROOM, Albany, N. Y., May 7.—Smiling at the jury Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state, took the stand today in her own defense.

Mrs. Knapp is on trial before Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan and a jury on a charge of stealing a $2,875 census check. She was preceded on the stand by three witnesses, who had testified as to her good character and honesty.

Mrs. Knapp started off by giving some details of her life. She said she always had been an "educator." She told of organizing the college of home economics at Syracuse university and of her work at that institution.

P. C. Dugan, Mrs. Knapp's counsel, led her along to the beginning of the census. She said she had made many census appointments which came to her through "political channels." Dugan then offered in evidence a letter written to Mrs. Knapp by Attorney General Albert Ottinger on April 23, 1925, advising her of her power to make census appointments.

PICK JURY TO HEAR MURDER

New Philadelphia Man on Trial for Death of Sister-in-law.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., May 7.—There was little possibility of completing the selection of a jury to try William D. Herron, 41, for the alleged slaying of his sister-in-law, Miss Viola May, last February before noon tomorrow, it was indicated here today.

Herron lost the first step in his trial which started here today when Judge E. E. Lindsay over-ruled his application for a change of venue to another court, filed last Saturday.

The defendant was alleged to have choked Miss May to death during an automobile ride on the night of February 7, and then disposed of her body in the Tuscarawas river near Dover. Her body was recovered several weeks later.

Seventy-five veniremen were in court today from which number a panel will be drawn. Only two had been tentatively selected as jurors when noon recess was taken.

Engineers Hope That Earthen Structure
May Hold.

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 7.—Heavy rains during the night, driven by high winds, 15 m.p.h., today, portending today; and there was little hope that it would hold until night-fall.

Roads into the fertile Saluda river valley were closed, and no one was allowed in the region except in imperative business. Piedmont, Pelzer and other mill towns lay in the potential path of a hundred foot wall of water.

While engineers declared there was an excellent chance that the great earthen structure would withstand the gaping hole in its side, not a mountaineer within a dozen miles believed it would hold.

Rain Mars City League Opening Day Program

Wellsville Defeats Madison Billiards, 12 to 5; Turk-Nash-Chester, K. T. K.-Newell Contests Postponed.

CRASHING out a total of 24 hits, including 10 extra base blows, among them a pair of home runs, a couple of tripples and a bevy of two base bingles, running the bases like race horses, turning in no less than three double plays and in general contributing almost a little bit of everything in the general category of baseball, the Wellsville Nash Motors and the Madison Billiards clashed Saturday afternoon at Wellsville with Pilot Nicholson's squad winning by a count of 12-5.

It was the only game of the three-nights scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Turk Nash at Chester and K. T. K. at Newell were postponed.

Rain also fell in Wellsville but the two clubs decided to go through with it anyway. Three Madison Billiard batters had faced the offerings of Pitcher Murphy who started the campaign for Wellsville when the drizzle of rain became a well defined down-pour. Umpire Hall stopped hostilities at this point, ordering an intermission of 20 minutes. At the end of the pause in play, the rain had checked considerably and, although it was still drizzling a little, the two clubs were anxious to go on and play was resumed. A long in the fifth or sixth inning, the sun broke through and the game was ended in almost perfect environment.

Hitting potentialities of the Wellsville club were evidenced in the 14 blows they garnered off the deliveries of Cobb and Mackall, the latter a high school boy. Cobb gave the Wellsville club three hits until the fifth frame. In that frame Adamson led off with a single to right and three more followed in succession by Rager, C. Wagner and Edwards and Manager Jack Duran sent Mackall to the mound. The Wellsville club smote Mackall for three safeties before the onslaught was checked but in the remaining four innings, Mackall was nipped for only four more safe ones.

The performance of both clubs was surprisingly smooth in view of weather conditions and the fact that it was their first game. Both the Madisons and the Wellsville Motors trotted out a likely looking talent at first base. Edwards, initial sacker for the Motors, handled nine chances without a slip and turned in a single in three official times at bat. He drew a pair of walks. McKinney, Jack Duncan's first baseman, handled 12 heaves and miscued on only one round ball. In addition, he batted at a .667 rate for the day with a walk, a sacrifice fly to deep center, a triple and a single, and a fly to middle.

Tolbert, erstwhile first baseman, was playing at second for Wellsville and made putouts of the two chances that came his way. The two Wagners boys led the stickers with three hits apiece in four attempts. G. Wagner, in the fifth, crashed out a three bager but was called out by Umpire Hall for failing to touch second.

To Morris, Madisons' second baseman, goes the honor of cloning the first homer of the season. Morris' circuit drive came in the first frame. Davis fanned and Blazier was tossed out at first. Morris then smacked the ball into deep center. It hopped wickedly over the wet turf and got away from Wagner as Morris completed the loop. Hancock duplicated the feat in the seventh, smashing the ball to center for a round trip.

Murphy, new member of Nicholson's stab corps, fanned 11 opposition batters as he went the route, retiring the entire side on strikes in the fourth.

The Madisons and Wellsville were scheduled to play at Columbian park tonight in the first home game of the season for the Billiards but, by agreement of managers, the contest will be taken to Wellsville as a result of better playing conditions at the present time.

The other game on the day's card will be staged at Newell with Turk Nash and Laughlin in action.

Leaders Begin to Hit Pace

Class Beginning to Tell in Both League Races.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Now being about the time for all good ball clubs to come to the aid of the percentage column, it is noted today that outfits like the Pirates, the Giants and the Reds in the National league and the New York Yankees and the Athletics in the American league are beginning to show just where the "authority" is vested. They were the heavy winners on the week just concluded, a week during which frostbite was a premium for the first time this season. In brief, class is beginning to register.

The Cardinals, as a matter of fact, were the only admitted contender that didn't do itself some good during the seven days in question. The Cards, split up the back like a dowager's gown by a series of illnesses and injuries, averaged only four runs a game in the last eight played and that kind of hocus pocus is out like an eight in this modern day. The club won only two out of eight and now is doddering around in sixth place.

The Pirates, Reds, Yankees and Athletics staked themselves to the greatest weekly gains. The Pirates' second being five out of seven. The Reds' six out of eight, the Yanks six out of seven and the Athletics four out of five. In consequence, the Pirates slid into fourth place, within 1 1-2 games of the lead, the Reds displaced the Dodgers in the runner-up position and the Yanks gave evidence of making a one-club race again of the American league affair.

Buce Lead Hitting. At that, the Pirates did the real hitting for the week, getting no less than 99 hits in seven games for a remarkable average of 14 to the game. Those who thought that Pittsburgh was all washed up like a starched collar after the last world series are beginning to think up another good one.

The Giants also had a big week on the attack and they needed it, judging by the kind of pitching they got in the first three games at Cincinnati, the last two of which were lost. Our Mr. McGraw's boys still are running first but they are almost as badly shot as the Cardinals. They won five out of eight, thanks to the weather-stripping they gave the Dodgers and, even including the Cincinnati series, they took a terrible thump out of enemy pitching. They averaged nearly 11 hits a game for the week, their output including eight home runs, high water mark for the seven days.

Meantime, the Reds, not supposed to be a hitting club, virtually kept pace with the Giants in this department and today are running a rousing second, less than a game out of the lead. The Reds top the league in games won with 13 and, from an intra-league standpoint, are exceeded only by the Yanks and Indians, each of which has won 14.

Tribe Is Slipping. The Indians, however, began to slip back toward normalcy by winning only two out of six for the week. Pitching or no pitching, a club that scores only 20 runs in six games is headed no place at a sickening rate of speed. Just such another club is the Dodgers, who dropped from first to third with a run-average of less than three. The surprising feature of this was that the Dodgers were able to break even on the week.

So did the Chicago Cubs, who, however, gave some evidence of emerging from their hitting despondency by averaging a triple better than nine hits a game. But the Cubs scored none too freely and the idea is that they use the score board mostly for runs.

Everybody thought the Browns were going to accent one with the aid of their countenance during these seven days but Howley's club continued to push opposing pitchers all over the premises, getting 82 hits in seven games, winning four of them and remaining, as is, in the first division. If the Browns did nothing else for the rest of the season, they can check the bet on that early flurry they caused in the American league situation.

Taylor Makes Final Bow of Season Tonight at Eagles' Against Kendlar

At Kendlar, Taylor's foe in eight-round feature bout at Eagles' tonight.

Popular McKeesport Welter Will Give Away Three or Four Pounds in Scrap With Alliance Pug.

Harry "Slambang" Taylor, the McKeesport slugger, one of the most popular boxers that has pushed the leather this year in the Eagles' arena, tonight will make his final bow of the present season in an eight-round battle with Al Kendlar of Alliance.

And, from all indications, disposing of the sturdy, wallowing Alliance pug will be the hardest job that the Pennsylvania has been called to perform in his series of three fights in East Liverpool.

Taylor, in all probability, will be called upon to give Kendlar from three to five pounds during the weighing in process this afternoon. The McKeesport will scale around the 143-pound mark and Kendlar is expected to tip the beam in the close proximity of 146 to 147.

Hard as a leg of nails already and possessed of a punishing right that needs to find its mark only once, Kendlar's extra poundage will mean considerable to him and certainly will not work to the advantage of Taylor. Taylor's task in tonight's eight-round fracas will be stopping Kendlar's right, if the latter's two-round performance here a short time ago furnishes sufficient evidence of his style of combat. It was a crushing right that floored Tommy Murphy, Kendlar's foe, in their short-lived session and, in all probability, it will be that same right that will be sent hurtling at Taylor's chin tonight.

In his bouts with Piazza, Taylor faced a hard swung left. That was Piazza's chief weapon. Tonight Taylor will have to chance his "stance" somewhat to protect himself from an onslaught of rights that will be coming his way.

Jack McCarthy, welterweight who recently joined the stable of Reed Brown in Pittsburgh, meets Young Vivio in the six-round semi-final and another session of slugfests is predicted here if the two men follow their customary methods. Both are fighters rather than boxers.

Local talent is paired off in the two preliminary bouts. Eliza Holman takes on Paul McCray in the four-round curtain raiser and Lee Smith and Young Plant follow with another four-round session.

The bouts are being staged by the Eagles' club as a benefit for the City Baseball league and will conclude the season for the lodgemen. A capacity house is anticipated in view of the possibility existing in the Taylor-Kendlar battle. The opening scrap will be started promptly at 8:15.

Myers Spoils Tiger Hurler's No-Hit Game

Billings Gives Two Blows; Buddy Gets Both of Them.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Haskell Billings, youthful pitching sensation of the Detroit Tigers, would have a no-hit game to his credit today if Buddy Myers had been kept out of the Red Sox lineup yesterday. The Boston team got only two hits off Billings, and Myers made both of them. Detroit touched Settlement and Bradley for only six hits but got the verdict by a 3 to 0 score.

The St. Louis club, alias Samuel Gray, nosed out Washington in the eleventh, 7 to 6. Gray has accounted for six of the Browns' thirteen victories.

Red Faber held the Yankees to six hits but unfortunately two of the six were homers, made by Gehrig and Dugan, and the White Sox lost by a score of 4 to 2 before sixty thousand fans, including the crew of the Bremen.

Cincinnati's ten-inning triumph over the New York Giants gave the Reds a two to one edge in the series. Bubbles Hargrave's pinch hit was the blow that downed the Giants, 4 to 3. After Dazzy Vance had lost a 4 to 2 dual to Alexander the Great, Bab Herman wallowed a homer which enabled Brooklyn to nose out St. Louis in the pinch-hit, 5 to 4.

Pat Malone's relief twirling featured Chicago's 5 to 4 win over the Phillies, in eleven innings. Other clubs were idle.

Stolen Idols

A Romance of the Sea
By Frank L. Packard.

"A man was a ghastly and pitiable looking object. Instinctively, though his head was buried in his arms, Bob Kingsley closed his eyes as though to shut out from him some abhorrent sight. That morning they had dragged the poor wretch along the deck and had flung him at his, Bob Kingsley's feet."

"Heaven-Born," Shen-shu had purred, "the afflicted Mindar Singh, fearing that his strength fails him, but desiring only that he may cast his eyes upon the treasure of Hsi Yan before he dies, begs the Heaven-Born to give him his unimpeachable assurance that the treasure is indeed in that place of which the Heaven-Born has spoken; for then will the heart of Mindar Singh be gladdened, since Luala being but a few miles distant there should then yet be time for him to see the treasure for which he has so willingly sacrificed his life."

Two-edged words! A barbed, inhuman thrust at Mindar Singh; a threat in no wise veiled as to what would befall him, Bob Kingsley, if up that creek there was no burnt tree, no crumbled hillside, and no treasure of Hsi Yan.

He had not answered Chen-shu; and then for a time they had left Mindar Singh lying there at his feet—as an object lesson! He quite understood that!

There were no words to describe the man's condition. He did not want to describe it, or visualize it again, or let his mind dwell upon it. It turned his soul sick. Mindar Singh was scarcely any more a man—that which had lain at his feet was merely mangled human flesh that somehow breathed and somehow had the power of speech. He remembered the other's words, the outstretched pleading arms.

"Evil have I done unto you, Sahib," Mindar Singh had whispered; "but good let the Sahib do unto me in return. Reach out your hand, Sahib, and close them around my throat, and in mercy kill me, for I can no longer endure the torture that I suffer."

He had oiled the man as best he could; and had given the other his pannikin of water which was then half full—it was all he had to give; and after a little while, in half-gone, conscience-stricken phrases, Mindar Singh had confessed to having led on the Alita in his account of what had taken place on the night of Hsi Yan's visit to Kalawa.

Up to that point where Mindar Singh had dragged Hsi Yan's body to the secret passage, his story was true; but he had not replaced Hsi Yan's body on the couch until he had made sure the junk had sailed away; and thereafter he had remained hidden in the secret passage. Everything he had done in connection with Hsi Yan's body had been for the purpose of building up an alibi for himself for he had expected his master to return, and he had intended to creep out and strike Tom Kingsley down before his Mindar Singh's identity could be known, and the steal the idols for himself. And, if it were necessary to do so in order to prevent recognition, Mindar Singh had admitted that he would have struck to kill. Hsi Yan's body was there to point to the authorship of the crime, and his own disappearance would be accounted for by the presumption that he had been carried off on the junk, or had met with foul play at the hands of the junk's crew. But Tom Kingsley had not returned, and for three days Mindar Singh had lain hidden in the passage, stealing out at night for food and water, then, believing that Tom Kingsley must have been caught and carried off in the junk, Mindar Singh had made his way surreptitiously to Singapore. There he had eventually got on the track of the junk's crew; and there he had learned of the finding of Tom Kingsley's body in the open boat at sea.

Bob Kingsley nodded suddenly to himself. He had asked Mindar Singh about that. Mindar Singh's theory was simple enough, and, in the light of the native servants' statement, ascribed by Crowley in his letter, was undoubtedly the true one. Tom Kingsley had found the house surrounded, and the natives scattered when he had escaped through the secret passage, and since he was wounded and could not walk any distance, the only way to get assistance was to go by boat to the town. This he had set out to do, but his wound had grown worse, he had lost consciousness, and, instead of reaching the town, the boat had been carried out to sea.

Again Bob Kingsley nodded. Undoubtedly that was what had happened, though in the very nature of things it must always remain but a conjecture.

As for the rest of Mindar Singh's story, the killing of Hsun Chi and the theft of the first idol needed no repetition, for that confession had already been wrung from him by Java Dick and Chen-shu. After that, with one of the idols then in his possession and learning that he, Bob Kingsley, had had the other at Java Dick's, Mindar Singh had come off to the Alita, where he had presented himself in the role of the faithful servant. There was little else that Bob Kingsley had not already known, except that Mindar Singh had taken into his confidence some men of his own race who owned a small vessel and were prepared to start at once for the treasure. The reason for Mindar Singh's ingenious explanation of the key to the cipher was much as he, Bob Kingsley, had already surmised. Mindar Singh had hoped thereby to establish such unimpeachable trust in himself that the translation of the cipher would at once have been made in his presence, and so secure him against the risk, both of failure and of danger to himself, that was necessarily involved in the only alternative he had—which was the actual theft of the idols. He had been obliged, however, to resort to the alternative of theft, and had stolen the idols successfully; but only to fall with them in his possession into the hands of Chen-shu and into his present miserable and fatal plight.

CHAPTER 53.

Bob Kingsley stirred uneasily. God help the poor wretch! In a sense he had brought it upon himself, and his hands were far from clean—but they were white compared with the hands of those who plucked their victim's flesh piece-meal from his body, and were smeared with the filth of the atrocious torture they inflicted! But the man must be mercifully near his end now. He had not heard Mindar Singh's scream for it must be, fully an hour. He raised his head—and dropped it again on his arms. Mindar Singh—as down there on the same side of the deck as himself, and in plain sight—but he did not want to look.

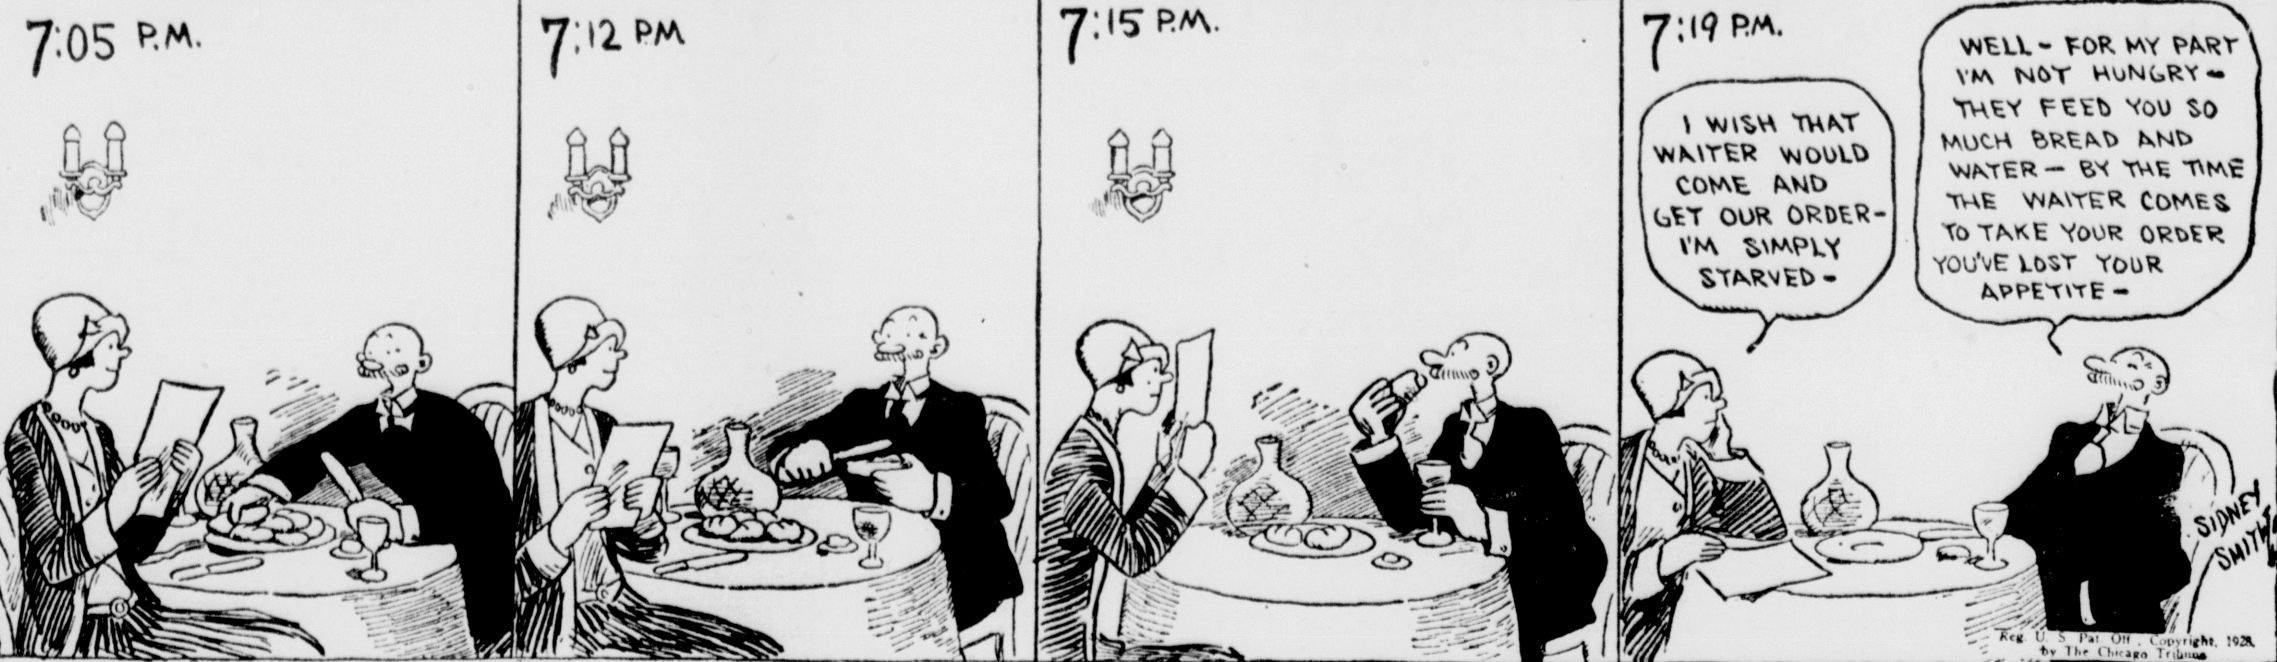

He groaned suddenly. Mindar Singh's suffering were about over—but what about Verna? She was as far aft on the schooner as he was forward; but, unlike himself, though obviously restrained from coming further forward than the after-house, he knew she was neither tied nor bound, and, within restricted limits, was free to walk about, for sometimes he had seen her there. Not often in the daytime, even when the trim of the schooner's sails made his side of the deck for the writhings and whimperings of Mindar Singh stood between them then and she had kept to the opposite side; but at night when the schooner was on the port tack he had seen her standing there for hours like a white wreath in the darkness—and he knew she was looking at him.

So far, he was satisfied that she was unharmed—and Chen-shu had pointed to her as evidence that he had kept faith! Faith! Oh, dear! With hypocritical regret Chen-shu had explained that, though a berth in the cabin was offered to her, she had refused it and had slept on the deck. Bob Kingsley's teeth bit into his lips. A cabin shared with Chen-shu and Java Dick! She would have thrown herself overboard first! Thank God they had not driven her to that. But Chen-shu was too crafty to go to extremes until the moment came when he could do so with the certainty established that he risked nothing thereby. Chen-shu was fully convinced that in so far as Luala and the creek at Luala were concerned, he, Bob Kingsley, had told the truth, since in these two particulars anything but the truth would have been at once apparent; but for the rest, though Chen-shu might believe in the details of the burnt tree and the flat rock, he had a means of knowing whether he had been tricked or not. Chen-shu would first make sure of that, while Verna was still a hostage to force the truth if an untruth had been told. That was all, until the treasure was actually found, that stood between him, Bob Kingsley, and death—all that stood between Verna and worse than death.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 7.—General Motors, American Can, Radio and Curtiss also had a brilliant forward movement in the speculative favorites in the early trading today.

The first prices of the new week were from 1 to 9 points higher, Radio setting the pace, with an 8-point jump to above 191. General Motors started at 210, up more than 5 points, but was driven back to 208 as the result of heavy liquidation and profit-taking.

Curtiss Aeroplane sold at 111 1/2, up 5 points from the previous close, and recorded a 100 per cent advance in market value since the first week in April. American Can, General Electric and a score of more market favorites pushed forward aggressively to new high price levels under a steady stream of buy. E. G. Freeport Texas was an exception to the general rule. Declining abruptly to 72 for a 9-point loss as the result of the poor showing in the first quarter, when only 55 cents a share was earned.

Bullish enthusiasm was at the boiling point in the financial district. The most important factor was the enormous influx of investment and speculative money flowing into Wall Street from other banking sources.
